Forecast For Northeast England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Tuesday 18 May 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Sunny spells and showers.

Today:
A fine start with some sunshine. Cloud soon thickening however, with scattered showers developing later in the morning and through the afternoon. Some parts likely staying dry however, with sunny spells possible throughout. Maximum temperature 16 deg C (61 deg F).

Tonight:
Showers gradually easing during the evening, then all parts dry overnight with light winds. Turning rather cold again, with temperatures falling into the low single figures of Celsius. Minimum temperature 2 deg C (36 deg F).

Wednesday:
After a fine, sunny start, cloud will soon thicken with scattered showers likely again. Some brighter intervals are possible later, however most parts staying rather cloudy. Maximum temperature 16 deg C (61 deg F).

Outlook for Thursday to Saturday:
Dry and bright start Thursday, before turning wet and windy later. Windy Friday with showers or longer spells of rain. Winds easing Saturday, with sunny spells and further showers likely.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.